WORKSHOPS

A workshop is defined as an academic offering in which the students work on specific problems, preferably drawn out of their own experience and proposed by themselves, under individual guidance by qualified staff members, with collateral activities such as group meetings for discussion, examination of visual aids, etc., and consultation with other staff members who may be available; but in no case should such collateral activities occupy more than a contributory place in the whole program.

Workshops are usually given under the number and title "799-Workshop" and are listed in the course offerings of the various departments. The full time of students is required in workshops; hence, registrants may not take other studies or be employed concurrently. The minimum period for a workshop carrying graduate credit is three weeks. The period of time for a workshop conforms to the regular quarter and term periods of the University calendar. Three-week workshops carry four quarter hours of credit and six-week workshops carry eight quarter hours.

No more than twelve hours of Workshop credit may count toward a graduate degree.

This type of Seminar is designed to provide small group training in the non litigious functions of the practicing lawyer. Legal planning involves the resolving of fact situations and policy questions of means and ends, together with the effectuation of determinations made in connection therewith. Effectuation of policy decisions often involves the skills of negotiation and draftsmanship, as well as the technique of counseling and litigation. (Training in these latter two techniques is provided by Legal Aid Clinic and Ohio Trial Practice, respectively.)

Following is a list from which Seminars in Legal Planning are drawn each year:

A. Business Planning

Planning and drafting in the field of business associations; principally concerned with problems in general and limited partnerships, business trusts, and closely held corporations.

B. Estate Planning

A consideration of the problems involved in planning an effective and economical gift distribution of property interests. Typical estates, both large and small, will be considered in the light of the results commonly sought by the donor and the techniques and restrictions suggested by the law of property, wills, future interests, insurance, and federal and state taxation.

C. Federal Tax Planning

Consideration of selected problems in business organization, corporations, partnerships and individual estates; practice in draftsmanship and negotiation. The course in Income Taxation is a prerequisite.

D. General Legal Planning

Planning of representative types of personal and business transactions which confront the general practitioner. No one area is emphasized; instead, various problems are considered in the light of results commonly sought by clients. These include employment contracts, partnership agreements, purchase agreements, chattel security agreements, real property transactions, wills and trusts.

E. Planning Through Negotiation

Considerations relating to planning for and during negotiations; weighing of legal economic and social factors and use of techniques for attainment of objectives. Problems involve resolution of conflicting interests and rights, and drafting appropriate embodiment of agreed-upon solutions.

F. Legislative Planning

The role of the lawyer in advocating or opposing state and federal legislation. Group discussion of bills and supporting briefs drafted by individual members of the seminar will include problems selected from past and current proposals of the Ohio State Bar Association.

715 (16) Su,A,W,S. Ward Clinics in Medicine. Med, 3rd yr. Staff

Each student serves as a Ward Clerk, spending an appropriate length of time at the University Hospital, Psychiatric Institute and Hospital, and the Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital. This comprehensive rotation makes it possible for him to see and study both full-pay and service patients.

The student will regard each patient assigned to him as his own patient, in that he will take a complete case history, perform a thorough physical examination, and carry out certain routine laboratory tests. The written record of these procedures will become a part of the patient's permanent hospital record. In addition, the student will be expected to visit his patients daily and to write progress notes at regular intervals; to give certain treatments under supervision, as indicated by the supervising staff. The student will be responsible, at any time, for the presentation of the case history and pertinent physical findings, at the regularly scheduled teaching clinic and ward rounds for any patient assigned to him. He will be expected to become familiar with the nature of the patient's illness with respect to its pathologic physiology, differential diagnosis, and the current concepts of therapy.

Additional instruction in the form of daily lectures, seminars, and demonstrations serve to introduce the student to the various sub-specialties of medicine as well as the psychiatric aspects of internal medicine.

Formal instruction is done between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., but each student is expected to be available throughout the entire twenty-four hours, and should consider the course a full-time pursuit. All students are expected to attend the daily departmental conferences.

736 (13) Su,A,W,S. Dispensary Clinics in Medicine. Med, 4th yr. Staff

The teaching in the Out-Patient Clinics is designed to give the Senior student some appreciation of the practice of medicine as he will be experiencing it in his office. The Dispensary Clinics include a general diagnostic clinic and all of the important specialty clinics. Each student is assigned in rotation to all of these clinics. As a clinical clerk, he is the first to see the new patients who come to any given clinic. He is expected to take a history and do a physical examination in as expeditious a manner as possible. He then presents his findings to one of the attending physicians who discusses the case with him in terms of both diagnosis and therapeutic approach. The student's diagnosis, his suggestions for further study, and his proposed therapeutic approach are given every consideration by the attending physician in order that the patient shall be, insofar as possible, that student's patient. The student is responsible for referrals to other diagnostic clinics and for orders requesting special studies such as X-rays, electrocardiograms, etc. He also is expected to arrange a return visit date at a time when he will be in the clinic. Each student is required to prepare a term paper derived from a study of the current literature on a selected subject in internal medicine.

Formal teaching is kept at a minimum during Dispensary Clinic Hours. However, at any time, the student may be asked to present any patient whom he may have seen during that day, for explanation and/or demonstration by a member of the staff.

The Dispensary Clinics are open daily from 9:00 a.m. to 12 m., and from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.
